Levine Children's Hospital

Levine Children's Hospital's Congenital Heart Center

With nationally recognized, board-certified pediatric cardiac specialists, the Congenital Heart Center at Levine Children's Hospital is the region's preeminent destination for pediatric cardiology and cardiac surgery.

Caring for minor heart murmurs to complex heart defects, our multidisciplinary team of physicians provides seamless cardiology care from before birth through adulthood. We specialize in neonatal cardiac surgery for newborns, pediatric cardiac surgery, heart transplantation and adult congenital surgery. And our team uses the most advanced technology to evaluate, diagnose, treat and manage your patient's heart condition.

What Sets Us Apart

TOP RANKINGS

Named a Best Children's Hospital for cardiology and heart surgery by U.S. News & World Report, we are a national leader in pediatric cardiac care.

SUPERIOR OUTCOMES

We have the leading hypoplastic left heart syndrome outcomes in the country, with a 4.9 percent mortality rate for the Norwood procedure. The Society for Thoracic Surgeons puts the national average at 17.0 percent. Our innovative approach to the care of pediatric patients with cardiac catheterizations has made us one of the leading programs in the nation in device testing and trials.

COMPREHENSIVE EXPERTISE

With a fetal cardiology team that can diagnose congenital heart defects in-utero, pediatric cardiologists, pediatric cardiac surgeons, a pediatric heart transplant specialist and the region's only adult congenital specialist, we offer an unparalleled combination of expertise.

BREAKTHROUGH CARE

In addition to the region's only pediatric cardiac surgery program, Levine Children's Hospital is also home to the region's only pediatric cardiovascular intensive care unit, heart transplant program and interventional catheterization program.

Our multidisciplinary team of expert physicians care for children of all ages, with specialties from fetal cardiology to adult congenital heart disease.
